Large and Unusual Potatoes

Mr. T. R. Kestner, 75, retired from the State Highway Department ten years ago, but from the looks of those potatoes he's holding, he is anything but retired. Seems like he's been keeping plenty busy . . . gardening.

In one hand he holds two potatoes weighing 1½ pounds each, in the other hand he has a "6-potato" potato. Look closely and you will see that 6 potatoes are joined as one for a total weight of approximately one pound.

"Most anything you can want from a garden, I have it," said Mr. Kestner as he spoke of the variety of vegetables his garden produces, including 'Calico Butterbeans.'

Be Careful How You Trespass on this Farm!

If you should happen to pay a visit to the farm of Charlie McCormick at Spout Spring, you'll find a lot of things usually found on a farm, cattle, vegetables of all kinds, corn, hay, and 'something else'.

That 'something else' is a yellow jackets nest that is approximately 20 inches in diameter and 1 foot tall. The nest was built in an inlet on the creek bank.
